

20th January 2023

Dear Parents and Carers

Despite the frost and cold that has descended this week, our children have been busy and full of joy inside the building this week. Our children are working hard in lessons, and I have been giving Headteacher awards almost every day this week for outstanding effort and impressive progress.

The choir has been filling the school with their uplifting voices, as they prepare for their Young Voices trip next week. They also performed in our Celebration assemblies today – which was such a positive and upbeat end to the week.

It has been so nice to share our celebration assemblies with parents again, and I know that our children have been excited to see those parents that have attended so far. We will always endeavour to let you know as early in the week as possible if your child has been selected to be in the Golden Book on Friday so that you can come in if at all possible.

Have a wonderful weekend and we will all see you again next week!
